IT Support and Acceptable Use Policy

IT Support

Employees should submit technical issues through the company's approved IT support portal. Critical incidents should use the emergency support process.

Company Devices

Company devices are intended primarily for business activities and must remain protected with the required security controls.

Software Installation

Employees should install software only from approved sources and must obtain approval when company policy requires it.

Internet Use

Company networks and systems must not be used for illegal activities, harassment, unauthorized access, or activities that create significant security risk.

Email

Company email should be used for business communication. Employees must verify unusual requests for passwords, money transfers, or confidential information.

Support Priority

Critical outages affecting many users receive higher priority than individual low-impact issues.

Account Security

Employees must lock their workstation when away and report suspected account compromise to IT immediately.

Internal company reference document — sample data for an Enterprise Knowledge Assistant.